

Why do honors students love the Honors College?

- Small, student-centered classes
- Diverse, innovative curriculum
- Priority class scheduling
- Fellowship, study abroad opportunities
- Expert guidance on applying for national and international scholarships
- Working closely with faculty mentors on research and creative projects
- DeHority Living-Learning Community

Ball Honors House

BALL STATE UNIVERSITY

WE FLY

Inquiry. Exploration. Discovery. Connection.
Learn more at bsu.edu/honors.

“The Honors College is very different from a high school honors program. It’s a community committed to asking questions and supporting each other. Being an honors student will empower you to accomplish your goals and pursue the life you desire.”

—David Kuo, '22
Music performance major, Georgetown, IN

bsu.edu/iamhonors

There’s more to the Honors College
than you may think.

Ball State’s Honors College provides intellectually curious, high-ability students a distinctive and stimulating academic, leadership, and social experience that enhances any major. Specialized liberal arts courses with challenging, fun learning activities will inspire you to express yourself, debate complex ideas with classmates, and expand your thinking.

Our vibrant, supportive community will connect you with other students and faculty with diverse interests and backgrounds who share your passion for learning. Professors will treat you as a fellow scholar, and you’ll gain critical skills and a global perspective that will boost your career potential.

Study Abroad in Ireland

Engage with us!
bsu.edu/visit

BALL STATE UNIVERSITY
Honors College

The information presented here, correct at the time of publication, is subject to change. Ball State University practices equal opportunity in education and employment and is strongly and actively committed to diversity within its community. MC-53832-23